Jnani is a feature length documentary focusing on the life and teachings of Ramana Maharshi, regarded by many as one of the greatest spiritual masters of modern times. Jnani was filmed in and around the Ramanashramam and the Arunachala Mountain in Tiruvannamalai, Tamil Nadu, India. Ramana Maharshi's teachings, which lead to self-knowledge, are clearly explained by foremost experts and writers on the sage's philosophy, including David Godman, Michael James and Sri V. Ganesan, the great-nephew of Sri Ramana Maharshi. 80 Minutes. This film is being screened courtesy of Jean R. Dedieu and Cinefx Productions, <http://www.jnani.tv>.

Ramana Maharshi: Silence is the most potent form of work. However vast and emphatic the sastras may be, they fail in their effect. The Guru is quiet and peace prevails in all. His silence is more vast and more emphatic than all the sastras put together."

Admission is free.
